Hispanic Heritage Month began as Hispanic Heritage Week when President Lyndon Johnson signed legislation in 1968. In 1988, under President Ronald Reagan, the commemorative week was extended to a month long from September 15 to October 15. This particular time period was selected because period encompasses the independence of eight Hispanic heritage countries; Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Mexico, Chile and Belize.

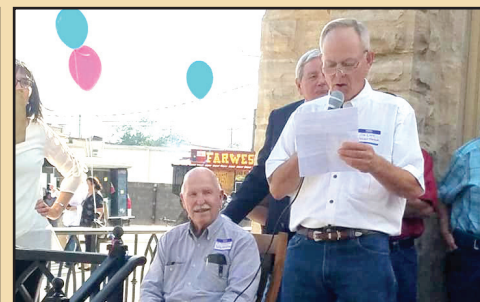

National Hispanic Heritage Month celebrates the contributions of Hispanics during their presence in North America. From the settlement in North America in 1513, 94 years before the arrival of English settlers in Jamestown Virginia to their presence in St. Augustine Florida, to the outpost of San Francisco in 1776.

Celebrate diversity and celebrate this month and the many contributors that have made this a great country.
